I'm going to build a microsite for Relay FM, a podcast network that has some of my favorite shows about technology, Apple, and related topics. The podcast has upwards of thirty-five shows and counting, with almost as diverse a cast of hosts. The site will highlight the network's history, accomplishments, and people. The site will be a home page with three major links, two of which will have a gallery layout and the last one being an about page.

- Homepage
 - o Basic information about the network as well as links into the gallery pages
 - o Links out to related networks/shows
- About page
 - o Page with a deeper dive about the network's history, directions, and notable accomplishments.
- Show Gallery
 - o Gallery of current, past, and member's only shows, with links out to the main site pages
- Host gallery
 - o Gallery of current and past hosts, with a collation of relevant social media links
